Summary

I am a full stack developer with experience in PostgreSQL, Express, React and Node.js with fluency in both English and Spanish. I possess a work ethic with a hands-on approach, having worked freelance and in-house and have led the build of a popular international recruitment website for a leading education supplier while part of the senior leadership team. I consider myself at my core to be a solutions-oriented, technical-minded leader with extensive knowledge of strategic business planning and technical project management. My goal is to bring my unique and dynamic technical experience to work alongside your company as someone who can adapt in the face of a rapidly changing industry and provide out-of-the-box ideas and solutions to assist in the growth of your enterprise.
